A fair price for MY solar power

9/2/16

As Victorians, we are well aware that the price we get for sending our solar power to the grid is shockingly low - and a long way from fair.

In fact, the minimum solar feed-in tariff is a mere 5c per kilowatt hour, which is galling when we consider that our energy retailer is free to sell this clean energy on to our neighbour for a price as high as 35c/kWh or even more. Solar owners are getting the short end of the stick.

It's clear as day that 5c/kWh comes nowhere near to solar's true value.

Solar owners deserve a fair price for the energy we feed back into the grid
